

Remote Project Support at home or at school

Do you have an independent study, creative writing, math, art, or social studies project and would like to raise awareness and support a good cause while completing your project?

Craft Sales for Fundraising (entrepreneurship, economics, and service)

Objective:

Use your creativity and skills to make goods to sell and donate half of your profit to a non-profit organization.

Supplies:

Depends on your craft project

Details:

Sell your goods to friends and family. Keep track of your expenses and proceeds. Track any changes in your process and methods of creation, marketing, and sales techniques.

Increasing Potential:

Take it to the next level by recruiting your friends, teammates, and/or schoolmates. Enlist others to create goods and join you in craft sales. Submit images of your goods to sell at our Farmer's market booth at Discovery Green, or partner with a group in your area. Enlist others to duplicate your project by creating a "Remote Project Support" information sheet so that others can join your efforts and learn from your experience.

Inspiring Others:

This project was the idea that came up during a brainstorming session with kids ages 10-14. Please send us a quick note about what you learned doing this project, and send us a picture of you and/or your group so that we can share your success on "Our Heroes" page. Also send us your project ideas to share with other compassionate kids. You'll be inspiring action even if you are on to another project! Email to brookeic2c@gmail.com

Examples of Crafts: birdhouses, metal work bookmarks, beaded jewelry, recycled tshirt shopping bags, tshirt messenger bags, blank notecards with artwork covers, knitted clothing and accessories, blank cards with sketches on the front.
