

Remote Project Support at home or at school

Do you have an independent study, creative writing, math, art, or social studies project and would like to raise awareness and support a good cause while completing your project?

Animal Diary (creative writing)

Objective:

This awareness project spreads the word that every animal matters, and allows us to deepen our enjoyment and appreciation of our animal companions, and teaches others to look more closely at how our decisions, routines, and attention make a big difference to those around us.

Supplies:

Notebook

Details:

Observe your pet and write in a journal as if you were experiencing life thru their senses. What are they doing, thinking, and feeling throughout the day? Do this for a week, notice how interactions with people affect their mood, appearance, sounds they make, what do you think each of these are communicating to us and other animals?

Increasing Potential:

Take it to the next level by recruiting your friends, teammates, and/or schoolmates. Enlist others to create journals.